LETTER TO SIMMONS ESSIG.

Dear Sir: It costs two or three times as much to put paint on as to buy it. A gallon of poor paint costs as much as a gallon of good, for the work; and a gallon of poor paint will not last as long as a gallon of good; and protects wood and iron a half or a third or a quarter as well as good. Do you buy good paint or poor? You don't know any more? Why, the market is full of it!

All Devos agents have a state chemist's certificate which tells just what's in Devos.

FINLEY

Chosen to Manage the Democratic Campaign
Despite Wishes of Harmon

ACTION UNPRECEDENTED

Columbus, O., May 27.—Judson Harmon, Democratic candidate for governor, has had to forego a time honored prerogative of the head of the ticket picking a campaign chairman. As a result of the other candidates upon the ticket insisting upon the selection of W. L. Finley, Harmon has yielded and Finley is chairman of the state executive or campaign committee. Three years ago when John M. Pattison was the Democratic candidate for governor, he insisted upon his right to name the chairman although he had to antagonize almost the entire state central committee. Pattison dictated the appointment of Harvey C. Garber and Garber with Finley as secretary, built up one of the best party organizations the Democrats have had. This year, Garber voluntarily retired because of his health and Finley was ambitious to succeed him as chairman.

Harmon's first choice was James Ross, a Columbus leader, but Ross declined the honor. Then Harmon picked Wallace D. Yaple, of Chillicothe, but the other candidates declared it must be Finley or no one. The action is said to be without precedent in Ohio politics.

FOREIGNER HAD LEARNED TO RAISE CHECKS

Albert Stalder, proprietor of a general store at the corner of Cherry and Tenth streets, was victimized by a shrewd foreigner yesterday. The foreigner, who it was afterwards learned, is about to leave this country, went into the place and purchased a cheap suit of clothing and tendered a check made out on a man named Young in payment. This check called for $51.00 and the man, after making some other slight purchases, was given his change. Everything appeared to be regular until Stalder presented his check at the bank upon which it was drawn, when the discovery was made that the check had been raised from $1 to $51. The case was placed in the hands of Detective Brislin and four foreigners were brought to the police station Wednesday night, but it was soon proved that the man who passed the worthless paper was not among them.

AT THE ORPHEUM

The Orpheum is drawing good crowds despite the hot weather and out-of-door attractions and the bill is being received with much favor by the patrons of the popular house.

F. Rogers and Mackintosh are the headliners and furnish much merriment with their skit, "Out of Sight." The sketch is well built, having more plot than usual with such efforts, and is well staged and acted. The Rah-bow Sisters, dainty soubrettes, do not belie their name for their dancing and singing is above par and their work in the spot light unusually beautiful. Applegate and Whiteside in a comedy sketch get much amusement from the alleged misfortunes of an auto trip. The Millmays make good with an acrobatic act that is classy, and Ed. Hayes, black face comedian, has some droll songs and a line of laugh provoking talk. The pictures and songs are good.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DANIEL ACHENS.
Daniel Achen, aged 23, died at the Stark county infirmary of tuberculosis Wednesday morning. He will be buried in the cemetery at that institution at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Achen was admitted to the infirmary May 1, 1908. His only relative in this country came from Hungary with him eighteen months ago.

JAMES W. KINNEY.
James W. Kinney, a small son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kinney, residing at 1111 Wade street, died Wednesday from infantile troubles and the body will be taken to Sparta today for interment.

GREAT NAVAL TEST

mission for several months at the Norfolk navy yard preparing for today's test. A large steel mast was built upon a double spiral principle, each set of spiral columns running in the opposite direction and at the top was a platform upon which were two dummies weighted and wired for recording the shock of the projectile. Two similar dummies were on the forward bridge, two on the top of the turret and one inside the turret.

A singular feature of the test was that the two dummies on the top of the turret were not harmed in spite of the fact that the explosion was powerful enough to smash the 11 inch armor plate. Shortly after 9 o'clock a preliminary shot was fired from one of the 12 inch guns of the Arkansas at a small canvas target hung on top of the Florida's turret, for the purpose of testing the sight and range. The shots were fired at a range of about 350 yards with a reduced charge so that the effect was practically the same as a range of 5000 yards with a full charge of powder. This preliminary shot was typical American gunnery. It struck the lower end of the target and tore a large hole in it.

As soon as this shot had been completed, the most spectacular firing of the day was begun. One of the large 12 inch guns in the turret of the Arkansas was loaded for the supreme test. The crew of 20 officers and men on the Florida commanded by Commander John G. Quinby, who remained on the Florida during the test went down below the protective deck in the stern of the ship. The observers on the Arkansas were compelled to go below also to avoid injury to anyone by flying fragments. In the conning tower of the Arkansas, Chief Constructor Capps and Admiral Mason watched the results of the powerful 12 inch shell. The shot was fired by Lieutenant Walter W. Falcomer, as soon as the red flag was raised on the Arkansas giving notice that she was about to fire. There was a deafening roar. The Arkansas tugged at her anchors from the impact of the shot, the projectile struck the port plate of the Florida turret, a little to the side of one of the ports, where a dummy 12 inch gun had been substituted for the regular 12 inch gun. The other 12 inch gun in the Florida turret was faced in a specially constructed shield and only suffered a superficial scratch. An examining party of the Arkansas went over to the Florida in a launch. One of the first to enter the turret was Chief Constructor Capps. During this test Naval Constructor R. H. Robinson was on board the Florida. The shock of the explosion he said was only slight to those under the Florida's protective deck. Chief Constructor Capps found that the pressure gauge in the Florida's turret did not show any unusual strain. He moved the turret guns through their usual arc of fire showing that the turret gear had not been injured. The ammunition hoists, he also found, still worked in spite of the terrific jar on the outside of the turret. The velocity of the shot was 1800 feet a second. The test was far more successful than expected, the experts declared, and much valuable data was gained from it.

The guns of the Arkansas were next trained on the mast of the Florida's stern. The first shot, a four inch projectile cut one of the steel rods. The second cut several more rods but did not injure its stability. A twelve inch projectile likewise did very little damage. When five shots had been fired at the mast Lieutenant Richard D. White and Lieutenant Commander George Bradshaw, assistant inspector of the target practice climbed to the platform on the top of the mast and shook it with all their strength, but still the mast stood.

The trials were then declared adjourned and the start was ordered to Annapolis for the more peaceful duty of taking the middies on a practice cruise. The Florida was towed to the Norfolk navy yard to be fitted for the torpedo test which will take place in Hampton Roads within the next ten days or two weeks.

ANOTHER MONSTER ANOTHER LIFE SAVED ANOTHER PROOF

There was a question in the minds of the Youngstown, O., people whether or not Quaker Herb Remedies caused tapeworms to be expelled from the system until the Quaker Health Teacher went to that city and proved it, as he has already done here. He announced that any person who might be afflicted with a tapeworm could call on him and obtain the Quaker Herb Extract. Many took advantage of this kind offer and as a result many worms were expelled. One lady who called was Mrs. Hattie Flood, No. 20 Fulton St., Warren, O., who said:

"For years I suffered with Stomach Troubles. Could not sleep and felt more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. Always had a vile taste in my mouth and my tongue was coated. My stomach and bowels were sore and bloated. Sometimes I ate ravenously hungry but whatever I ate did not seem to do me any good. Had pains in my back and sides and could not stoop without spots coming before my eyes. Always had splitting headaches and frequent dizzy spells. Became a nervous wreck. I purchased some Quaker Herb Extract and after using it a few days, I passed an immense tapeworm 40 feet in length. Now I feel like a new woman. All my pains and troubles have left me."

By using Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm you will realize quickly how these remedies cure Rheumatism, Catarrh, Constipation, Indigestion, Kidney, Liver, Stomach or Blood Troubles. The Oil of Balm cures any pain in a few minutes. Use it for headache, earache, toothache or any pain whatever and relief is positive.

These remedies are for sale at Roth & Hug, 333 E. Tuscarawas St.; F. LePage, Canal Dover, O.; F. C. Rea, New Philadelphia, O.; Garver Bros., Strasburg, O. Hundreds have been cured in this city. Don't suffer for another day, but purchase the Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm and get a sure cure.
